

SERIES OVERVIEW

I Have Questions - Money

Bacon. Cheddar. Bread. Butter. Cake. Blue face. Greenback. Coin. Gwalla. A Rack. A grip. A stack. A band. Benjamins. Adams. Jeffersons. Paper. Skrilla. Cash. MONEY.

No matter where in the world you live, chances are you know plenty of names for money. Because we can't stop talking about it. And maybe we can't stop wanting it. Is that a bad thing? After all, money is important. In this series, we explore the question "why is money so complicated?" as we check our perspectives on what's necessary, what's temporary, and what's eternal. Students will be reminded that their attitude about money will put this thought to the test: you can own money or money can own you.
